Things you will need to paint outdoors in order of importance:

1. Hat that won't blow away. I can't paint with out a spiffy baseball cap.
2. Easel and you will probably want a little tray table to set your supplies on as well. It can be a real pain to bend over for each new color. A folding chair can be ok as a little table. I suspect it will be windy so the option #3 might be better.
3. If you don't have an easel, a beach chair works pretty well, because you can set your stuff on the ground. There are plenty of chairs at Star Island so don't worry about that.
4. Bug spray.....I even have tick killer socks, but I will not paint anywhere that I am forced to stand in high grass.
5. Sun Screen
6. Layers of clothing for the changing temp
7. White or black clamp on umbrella - also a problem in the wind.

We will not be able to paint outside if the threat of rain is high, but there are porches!

Supply list for Pastels

There are a lot of choices with pastels. Some of those choices are based on money, but like all art supplies, you get what you pay for.

These are the less expensive pastels and they are pretty good. They have a lot of nice colors, but you cannot replace the colors when they are gone. They will go pretty fast, but should last you the 10 weeks. It is nice to have 72 colors.

Faber-Castell Goldfaber Studio Soft Pastel Set - Assorted Colors, Half Stick Set, Set of 72

I use Rembrandt pastels. You can buy individual sticks when you run out of your favorite color. These will last longer, but as you can see they are 3 times the price.

This set does not have as good of blues or purples as the Faber Castelli, but they are softer and richer colors. You could order a small box of blues and a small box of purple to go with the set.

Prussian Blue

This is the one color I can't live without!

This is the fixative I use. Always spray your work outside and with the wind. I only spray while I am working on a piece to establish a new surface. I do not spray when I am finished.

Our workable, mottle-free fixative is excellent for protecting pastel and charcoal drawings between layers of color. Rework and erase if desired.

I always draw with soft vine or willow charcoal. That way I don't need an eraser and it is easy to make changes. The pastel covers it up entirely, except on white paper.

This is the paper I used for years. These are nice tones for landscape, because they are the opposite of blues and greens. The Canson paper comes in a 9 x 12 pad which is fine. It will fit better on the drawing board.

Now I use this paper which is significantly more expensive. I really like the Terracotta color for summer painting.

I order my paper from Dakota Pastels, but it is possible that Amazon has it also. Dakota sells sample packs of the different papers that have more tooth. That is what I started with in order to find my favorite paper. I wrote down the things I liked and didn't like about each paper.

It is very irritating that this size drawing board it too small for the Canson 12 x 16 paper, but the next size is way to big for outdoors. Size 12 x 16 paper will fit on the back of the board if you use Binder or Bull Dog clips or tape or you could go with the 9 x 12 size paper.

⊕ Blick Sketch Pad Board - 15" x 16", front of the board

I store my finished pastels and my blank paper in a pad of tracing paper. The paper I use is 9 x 12 and I have a pad that is 11 x 14. I use a clip to keep things from moving around.

I would expect to do 1 or 2 small pastels in a day. You don't want to run out of paper!

I am going to keep my stuff in a plastic container for the ferry ride.
